REVVED FOR GROWTH

Fractional CRO for founder-led B2B companies. I fix the reason your company isn't hitting its number.

The problem I solve

Growth stalled, or the target was never realistic. Either way you're missing the number, and I parachute in to fix that. Founder-led or family-owned B2B companies, usually between $2M and $15M in revenue, hit a point where growth flattens and nothing bends it back. New people, new tactics, new tools...the line still won't move. The first place to look is not one department. It's the revenue engine itself: winning customers, keeping them, growing them, as one system that produces predictable growth...or not.

What I do about it

I embed as a fractional Chief Revenue Officer and take ownership of the revenue engine. Not an advisor who hands over a deck and leaves. The work starts with a diagnosis across Pipeline, Planning, People, and Performance: how revenue is actually produced, where it leaks, why the trajectory flattened. Then you choose. Take the findings and the plan. Have me scaffold what's there and fix what's broken. Or have me run the engine until growth is predictable.

FIX

Stalled companies where winning, keeping, and growing customers have come apart.

REBUILD

Engines that outgrew their original design.

BUILD

Earlier-stage companies installing the engine for the first time.

The founder that fits

- Founder-led or family-owned B2B, roughly $2M to $15M in revenue.
- Growth stalled despite new people, new tactics, new tools.
- The stall has a face you recognize: leads that sales won't call, deals that die after the proposal, accounts that quit growing after year one, a forecast nobody trusts, or you still in every deal.

The record

Over two decades running revenue organizations as CRO, VP Sales, and VP Operations, almost all of it inside founder-led companies. Two companies co-founded, both exited.

What happens next

A 30-minute conversation. If it makes sense, a Revenue Engine Inspection: a structured look at how revenue is actually produced. You get the inspection report either way. If you want me to do the work, we talk about what an engagement looks like. If not, no obligation.
